You might have seen the scene in some sci-fi movies. In the future, cars are not only running on the road but also in the sky. People drive these kinds of flying cars everywhere they want to go. Some people might think that it is just a fantasy, and we are not going to see the day coming during our life time. However, a company called Kelvin Vision has brought one to the world and completed a 35-minute flight with it. The car they made is a combination of the car and the airplane. There are wings and tails set on it, which allows it to transform from a car into an airplane, or,ore correctly, an "aircar" in three minutes. During the aircar mode, it could fly at a height of two thousand meters and at a speed of 170 km per hour for about one thousand kilometers. On the other hand, when the wings fold down along the sides of the car, it can be driven as a normal car on the road. In fact, it has a BMW engine and runs on regular gas just like other cars do. However, the aircar still hasn't passed all the tests so far. There are still problems to be solved with the safety and the durability of the aircar. Nevertheless, sometimes the world develops quicker than we thought. We can believe it's still possible to see that cars are flying in the sky during our lifetime.
